DIRECTIONS

Exchange of study venue

An application for change of study venue demands an examination of whether the student fulfils the general and specific entry requirements that are demanded for an entry to the programme. This examination includes a trial of previous studies, that is, if these may be given credit for in the programme studies at Linköping university.

The applications are examined after the students who return from approved leave of studies have been given places. In the case of insufficient number of places, applications are ranked; in the first place after individual examination of given reasons, in the second place after previous learning outcomes and merits. In the third place, applicants equivalent to one another are selected on the basis of drawing.

Change of programme

An application for change of study programme demands an examination of whether the student fulfils the general and specific entry requirements that are demanded for an entry to the programme. To change programme, the applicant must show the special reasons that have arisen or been intensified since the studies started.

The applications are examined after the students who return from approved leave of studies and students who have changed study venues have been given places. In the case of insufficient number of places, applications are ranked, in the first place after previous learning outcomes and merits.

Admission to latter part of programme

Admission to later part of programme requires an examination of available places during the particular semester, and how/if the student fulfils the requirements for the semester that he/she applies to. In the case supplementary qualification is necessary; a final date should be given for this.

If all the relevant requirements are met and there are more applications than places, applications are ranked according to the following order: (a-d for students who apply from other universities/higher education institutions, c-d for students who apply within Linköping University) a) medical reasons, b) social reasons, c) ranking according to the applied programme's academic credits, d) drawing (of lots).
